OLDEST SISTERS IN AMERICA ARE 100 AND 102

And they still work out every morning!

By DICK DONOVAN
Staff writer

It was a life of gas lamps, long skirts, horses and carriages when Sarah Delany was born back in 1889.

And through the decades spanning that long-ago yesterday and today, the two sisters — Sarah at 102 and Annie at 100 — have played their own small but significant part in American history.

Back when career opportunities were scarce for black men and women, Annie, known to friends and family as Bessie, became the second black licensed female dentist in New York City while Sarah, known as Sadie, became the first black to teach home economics in a New York high school.

Their father, Henry Beard Delany, a native of St. Mary's, Ga., was born into slavery but went on to become the first black Episcopal Church bishop in America.

"We didn't have much money," Bessie remembered while sitting with sister Sarah in the home they share in Mount Vernon, N.Y. "We just wanted to be the best at what we did."

To raise money to attend Columbia University's School of Dental and Oral Surgery, she taught for eight years in York, Sadie worked as an adult education teacher in farm areas, showing blacks how to manage their households.

Incredibly, the sisters are still spry and never hesitant to be out and about. Their agility no doubt can be attributed to the yoga workouts they go through each morning. And both still nurture a warm sense of humor.

"I went to have my eyes checked two years ago," recalled Sadie with a twinkle of glee in her eyes. "I told the nurse my birthdate — 9/19/89. She said, 'That can't be. This is 1989.' I said no...1889."

Having been on this good earth as long as she has gives Bessie a special understanding of the role our presidents have played in U.S. history.

"Lyndon Johnson was my favorite," she said. "He did a lot for our people. He really wanted a Great Society." On person than he was. Next to my mother, I admire Eleanor Roosevelt more than any woman."

And on President Bush, she feels maybe she's too old to have an opinion.

"I pray for him," she admitted.

Teen's brown pupils turned pure white four years ago!

MIAMI GIRL'S X-RAY EYES BAFFLE DOCS!

y BEATRICE DEXTER
pecial correspondent

A pretty brunette teenager has stunned experts with ıer bizarre white eyes — which let her see through solid tone and metal!

Annamaria Castro, 14, was born normal but developed pure white yes at the age of 10. The Miami, Fla., child has been studied by eye octors and other ex- erts, but none can ex- lain what causes her are condition.

"The doctors say they've ever seen anything like ıis," said the child's moth- r, divorcee Lupe Castro.

"My daughter can see nywhere, in daylight or in arkness, and she can easily ıe through solid objects.

"The doctors say she may ave been hit on the head r exposed to chemicals or ɔmething.

"All I know is that this ame on gradually and that s her brown eyes got light- r and lighter her vision got ronger and stronger."

Scientists who have stud- d the X-ray girl report that e can see clearly through -inch thick concrete, a steel afe, solid rock walls and ick layers of wood, plastic nd paper, including a tele- one book!

According to Mrs. astro, Annamaria first gan showing signs of r rare condition short- after her 10th birthday 1987.

The little girl's dark brown es first turned golden color, en gradually faded to white.

"I was real worried and I k her to doctors but they all said Annamaria's eyes were normal," Mrs. Castro recalled.

"Then she began seeing through things.

"She woke up one morning and she could see through her own body. She could see her own heart beating and she was screaming. That really scared us." The panic wore off after a few months, Mrs. Castro says, when Annamaria adjusted to her new X-ray vision.

Since then, the child's only complaint is that her schoolmates avoid her because of her looks. "I tell her that she is special and that one day she will be very famous," Mrs. Castro says.

"I tell her she has a wonderful skill that will help mankind. I don't know why this happened to my daughter, but we're going to make the best of

REINCARNATED!

By MICKEY McGUIRE/ Correspondent

Psychiatrists are baffled by the bizarre case of a 41-year-old Connecticut nurse who says that every night as she sleeps she lives another life — as a schoolmarm in 1877!

NURSE Louise Cramer is haunted by her bizarre double life.

THIS WOMAN LIVES TWO LIVES — ONE NOW AND THE OTHER IN 1877!

Mother-of-two Louise Cramer is undergoing treatment at a private clinic after she attempted suicide because of her "reincarnation syndrome," according to a report in a professional journal.

"She is terribly upset by this phenomenon and has suffered severe depression and loss of self-confidence in the nine months since her ordeal began," explained the woman's psychiatrists.

"She is frightened by the fact that no matter what, she always becomes that other person — the schoolteacher — in her sleep. She believes she is possessed by the devil."

Mrs. Cramer, 52, a divorcee, first began experiencing her bizarre symptoms last February when she realized that her dreams were repetitive and invariably involved a middle-age woman named Penelope Andrews, who lived in Wyoming.

"The woman I dream about lives in a cold and drafty cabin," she told her psychiatrist.

"She is sick with a nagging cough and her life is dreary and very lonely. She teaches a group of 16 children who walk long distances to her cabin over country roads. She is paid only on gifts from her students' families."

"We observed her as she slept," her psychiatrist reported. "And what we found was astonishing!

"She really becomes someone else — someone who lived in another state at least 115 years ago."

Psychiatrists found that soon after falling asleep, the woman enters a trance-like state in which her eyes are wide open, and she is able to speak.

When questioned about her identity, the woman insists she is Miss Andrews and describes her life as it was lived in the rugged, hardship days of frontier America.

"She says that Rutherford B. Hayes is President of the United States and that she is teaching her pupils about the bank failures of 1873, the Civil Rights Act passed in 1875 and the death of American hero Gen. George A. Custer at the Battle of the Little Big Horn," the psychiatrist said."She was greatly impressed with the publication the previous year of the book Tom Sawyer, by Mark Twain, and seemed irritated that she hadn't been able to get a copy to read to her pupils."It's the most incredible thing I've seen in 25 years practicing psychiatry. If you had told me three months ago that I would ever believe in reincarnation, I'd have busted out laughing. I am not laughing now."

Psychiatrists say they are baffled by the woman's condition, but hope to help her accept her dual existence through counseling.

Cops: Mom stabs son for playing Nintendo

An angry mom was accused of stabbing her 12-year-old son to death because he and his friends were making too much noise — playing with his Nintendo game.

Debbie Martinez, 31, was jailed without bond on a

"When they wouldn't stop playing, she pulled the electrical cord out of the wall socket," said a spokesman police department. An argument quickly turned into a fist fight between mother and son and ended with the boy being stabbed in the chest with a butcher knife, cops said.

The world's ugliest stripper gets paid to keep her clothes ON!

By MARGIE STACK
Special correspondent

Hideous Hazel Henderson is not only the world's ugliest stripper, she's the only hoochie-coochie girl on Earth who gets paid to keep her clothes ON!

The 42-year-old woman is one of 25 ladies who do the bump-and-grind nightly for wages and tips in Birmingham, Ala., but she's far and away the most highly-paid employee in the club.

Owner Jack Peterson says all the other girls are Playmate-type knockouts who compete for tips. Miss Henderson competes with no one, he added, because every patron in the club is willing to spend whatever it takes to keep her in clothes.

"Hazel has been with us for less than two years and she's already an institution," said Peterson. "Instead of getting mad when she stands up to strip, the guys who come here go absolutely crazy.

"To hear them scream and cheer you'd think she was the best looking gal on Earth. The fact is, they like her personality. They like her charisma. And they don't mind coughing up a few bucks to keep her 'feminine charms' covered up."

Two short years ago Miss Henderson was a dispatcher for a delivery firm who never dreamed that she could make a career for herself on stage. All that changed when she went to a beer hall's "amateur night" and got up to strip on a dare.

"When I started unbuttoning my blouse the men in the crowd looked like they were going to riot," she said. "Then they started throwing money and shouting: 'Keep it ON! Keep it ON!'

"By the time my routine was over I had raked in $75. I knew right then and there that I could make money as a stripper if I could find a place to dance every night.

"Most of the club owners I approached laughed in my face. But Mr. Peterson liked what I had to say and gave me my big break."

Billing herself as "The Flabulous Miss H.," Miss Henderson made her debut before a catcalling crowd of 25 men in November 1990. As her reputation grew, the crowds who paid good money to see her eye-popping routine got bigger and bigger. On average, about 200 men are now attending her shows.

"I've made as much as $1,200 a night but it's usually around $500," said Miss Henderson. "That's the beauty of being a stripper. You never know how the crowd is going to react."

Peterson himself isn't sure why Miss Henderson is such a big draw but he does have a theory. "Strip clubs can get awfully boring when you have one good-looking woman after another performing their routines," he said. "Hazel breaks up the monotony and the guys appreciate that.

"She's a lot of fun, too."

'She drives the guys crazy,' says Alabama club owner

GLOW-IN-THE-DARK TOILET SEATS!

Little Clint Lenz won $1,000 for his inventiveness after he came up with the idea for a glow-in-the-dark toilet seat for folks who head for the head in the middle of the night.

The Lake Mills, Wis., 10-year-old submitted his idea to the "household" division of the national Invent America competition after his mother complained to him about cold toilet seats.

"Mom always said she wanted a heated one, but I said glow-in-the dark," said Clint, who also won a computer for his fifth-grade class.

Clint's new toilet seat eliminates the need for a night light.

Bum lived in a garbage dump — until he inherited $900G

Bruce Bryan

Now the rich derelict's been found dead — & cops are baffled

By DICK DONOVAN
Staff writer

Alcoholic Bruce Bryan was living in a garbage dump when he inherited close to $1 million. But all it bought him was a life of torment and despair — and a date with violent death!

In January, Bryan was awarded $900,000 from a suit his now-dead parents had filed against a firm that mined their property in California.

The 49-year-old one-time derelict, who slept in culverts and scavenged cans for booze money, got his teeth fixed, made a few investments and moved to Missouri, flashing $100 bills and boasting to others about his windfall.

Just five months later, he was found in his locked, $90,000 mountain home, shot dead with his own shotgun.

Cops in Ozark County, Mo., are trying to determine if he died by his own hand or was murdered.

"It hasn't been ruled a suicide," a spokesman for Sheriff Max Vaughan said.

"We're waiting for lab reports. Right now, his death is being treated as a homicide."

Though the money meant Bryan could have spent the rest of his days in comfort, the fortune instead became a burden too heavy to carry.

So, some who knew him say, he locked himself in his home, loaded his shotgun and, with a squeeze of the trigger, rang down the final curtain on his troubled, booze-fogged life.

"The money became a monster," explained Bryan's one-time housemate, Craig Henry Rogers. "All he did was worry about it. The more he tried to deal with it, the more he drank."

Because the two men fought often — and knowing that Bryan had once asked for police protection — cops at first suspected that Rogers may have had a hand in his death. But police dropped Rogers as a suspect when they learned he was on the west coast when Bryan died.

Suicide or murder?

Cops say it will be a few weeks before the answer is known.

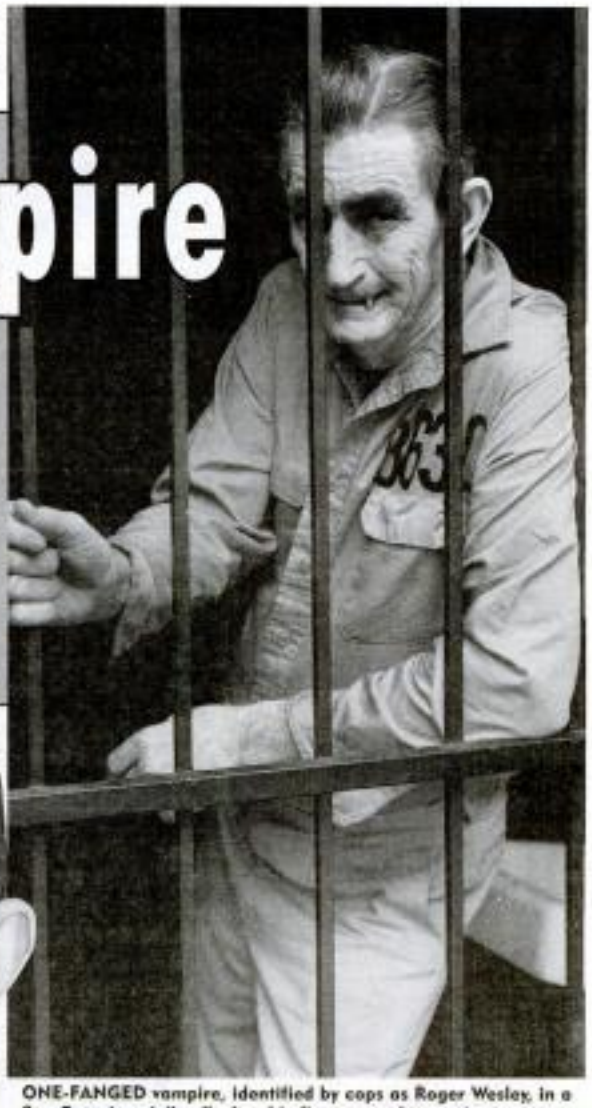
One-fanged bloodsucker busted!

Toothless vampire robs another blood bank



ONE-FANGED vampire, identified by cops as Roger Wesley, in a San Francisco jail cell after his first arrest last spring.

By BOB KENTON
Special correspondent

A vampire who lost a fang to gum disease was caught stealing blood from a Los Angeles blood bank just four short months after he was arrested for the same crime in San Francisco last spring, say cops.

Roger Wesley, 58, was taken into custody after police officers on routine patrol found him guzzling blood from one of three bags he allegedly stole from the blood bank north of the city on August 25, police reports state.

The vampire is currently undergoing a psychological evaluation. If he is found to be competent, he faces burglary charges and a trial, cops said.

"I've been a cop for 23 years and I've never been involved with anything like this," said a police detective who asked to remain anonymous. "This old guy looks like something that crawled out of a casket, and except for a single fang that protrudes from the left side of his mouth, he doesn't have a tooth in his head.

"Our officers found him drinking blood from a plastic bag and he made no bones about the fact that he had burglarized the blood bank. He said: 'I had to do it. This is the only way I can get the blood I need.'"

Desperate ghoul has to settle for bottled blood instead of live 'fixes'

As Weekly World News and other major media previously reported, Wesley was arrested after a series of break-ins at blood banks, clinics and hospitals in and around San Francisco were eventually dropped. But the vampire was held in a psychiatric unit for observation until doctors determined that he posed no threat to society in spite of his thirst for blood and June. At the time Wesley was described as being a man without a past.

He claims to be a native of San Francisco but there is no record of his birth. He has no ber or visible means of support.

The address he gave to police turned out to be a cemetery and in spite of his alleged crime spree, he had no criminal past.

Oddly enough, Wesley was described as having the strength of five men and "a single wolf-like fang protruding from the left side of his mouth." At the time one detective was quoted as saying: "Saints preserve us — we've got a vampire on our hands."

The Los Angeles police source said: "I'm not going to sit here and tell you that Mr. Wesley is some sort of supernatural being but doctors say he suffers from certain blood and nutritional deficiencies that might very well give him a that he has a real bad case of pyorrhea, which is a gum disease that causes people to lose their teeth, or in the case of Mr. Wesley, lose his fangs.

"If you put two and two together you can see why this guy might want to break into hospitals and clinics to steal blood. He sure as hell couldn't bite anybody.

"The only tooth he has is so loose and wobbly it would fall out of his head."

Wesley remains unavailable for comment while psychiatrists continue his evaluation. Meanwhile, police are trying to find any friends or family members he might have to see if they can find out more about him.

"We would definitely like to know what makes him tick."

14-year-old couldn't face the DRILL!

BOY HANGS HIMSELF — SO HE WON'T HAVE TO GO TO THE DENTIST!

By DICK DONOVAN / Staff writer

Schoolboy Craig Warren was so scared when told a dentist would have to fill 16 cavities in his teeth that he hanged himself.

The 14-year-old youngster had earlier told his older brother, Paul, the thought of a dentist drilling into his teeth scared him stiff.

Fearful Craig got the bad news about the fillings during a routine dentist's checkup in Liverpool, England.

He agonized over the news but was too ashamed to tell his parents he was terrified.

Hours after confiding his fears to his brother, the downcast kid hanged himself with his dog's leash in the living room of the family home.

"I think he did what he did in a moment of panic to try to gain some sympathy — maybe so that his mother would say he didn't have to go back to the dentist," said coroner Roy Barter. "But I am quite sure it was his fear of the dentist which lies at the bottom of this," he said. "It's a terribly sad case."

Neighbors tried to revive the unconscious boy, but he was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Ironically, the boy's tragic death occurred during a campaign by the British Dental Association aimed at eliminating kid's fear of the dentist's drill.

Bank Robbery? —It's Legal!

People all over the U.S. are grabbing thousands of dollars from banks by following the advice of a shocking new book called Bank Robbery.

Surprisingly, both the book and its methods are perfectly legal.

Technically, the money is just a "loan." However, thanks to a legal loophole, you can keep the "loan" as long as you like -- all you have to do is make interest payments.

Almost anyone can take $500 to $5,000 from a bank just by filling out a special, little-known form. Do it at several banks and you'll get $20,000 or more. Even unemployed people can get money, using the easy steps which the book explains in exact detail.

Other amazing secrets exposed include how to cancel debts without bankruptcy, stop bill collectors, erase bad credit records and get all kinds of credit cards easily. The author of this book has many different credit cards.

Even if you don't need credit right now, you can get the loan pre-approved in case you lose your job, have unexpected expenses or find a hot investment.

Getting money from tight-fisted banks is now so easy that many bankers are burning mad. One even sent a nasty letter to the publisher. There's no telling how long this book will be available or the loopholes will continue to exist. So you should order your copy right away.

The price is $15 -- but you can get it for free. How? Nowadays, most bank cards charge annual fees of $15-$20. But you'll find out how to get the card without paying the fee-- so just that one piece of knowledge will pay for the book.

They even guarantee that you'll get the loan or credit you need -- or they'll send your money back if you show you were turned down.

Get this explosive, revealing book today, while it's still available. Send $15 now to Discovery Publishers, Dept. 240-D, 11160 Veirs Mill Rd. L-15, Wheaton, MD. 20902. Do it right now, before it's too late. Money back guarantee.

STOP! You may be feeding your pet to death!

Do cats really need milk? Do dogs require more meat than cats?

Here are the answers to these and several other questions from a top animal expert, who explores some of the common myths about the feeding of pets that are not only unhealthy but could be deadly to your cute little puppy or kitty.

MYTH: Cats and dogs require only one meal every day, usually late in the afternoon or around dinnertime.

FACT: Most pets should be fed two small meals a day. Overweight pets should be fed two or three very small meals daily, which will help the pet lose weight.

MYTH: Milk is good for cats.

FACT: The lactose in milk can cause loose stools and severe diarrhea in cats and could result in dehydration. Water is the only liquid cats need.

MYTH: If your dog or cat eats grass, it means your pet has worms.

FACT: Pets eat grass to stimulate vomiting — which cleans out their digestive tracts — and not because they have worms.

MYTH: Liver is good for your pet.

FACT: Liver is a very rich meat and can cause dehydration. Dogs and cats should be fed only small quantities of canned pet food that contains liver — and never on a daily basis.

MYTH: Pets don't suffer food allergies.

FACT: Cats and dogs can suffer severe allergies to food. Some of the most common symptoms are skin eruptions, hives, diarrhea and indigestion. If these symptoms appear after you change your pet's diet, return your pet to its former diet. If the symptoms continue, take your pet to a veterinarian.

MYTH: Dogs need more meat than cats.

FACT: Dogs actually need less meat than cats. And both dogs and cats that are fed only meat could develop a fatal mineral deficiency.

Gutsy granny talks robber into arm wrestling match — AND BEATS HIM!

79-YEAR-OLD powerhouse Twyla Dolan shows off her fighting form after challenging a robber to an arm wrestling match — and whipping him!

Creep leaves her store empty-handed

By JOE BERGER

Staff writer

Cane-toting oldster Twyla Dolan was alone in her deli when a burly bandit walked in, drew a gun and demanded money. So spitfire Twyla offered to arm wrestle the creep for the cash — and whipped him so bad he shuffled off without a dime!

"That weasel, I guess I showed him a thing or two," the gutsy granny gloated to reporters.

"What he didn't know was, I drove big old trucks and worked in the shipyards most of my life and I can take care of myself pretty good, even if I am 79 years old.

"And when I grabbed his hand and snapped his arm down on the counter like that, he was so stunned he never said a word. He just took that gun of his and slinked out the door." Feisty Twyla locked horns with the unsuspecting thug one morning when he strolled into her Sydney, Australia, sandwich shop just minutes after she opened for business.

"It wasn't too smart, sticking me up that early when the till was almost empty," snipped the live wire lady. "But this guy didn't look too smart to begin with.

"I was all alone there and he just walked in and started waving that pistol around and told me he wanted my money. Well, it was only a few dollars, but it was mine and I didn't want to give it to him, period.

"I was trying to think fast, so I said, 'Hey, what if I arm wrestle you for it?'

Well, there he was, 6 feet tall and 200 pounds, and he looked down at this little old lady challenging him to an arm wrestling match and he actually laughed out loud.

"He looked around to make sure nobody was coming through the door and then he said, 'Anything you say, Lady.' I remember, he had this giant smirk on his face."

But the snicker faded fast when tough Twyla pinned the dumbfounded desperado's arm to the counter as easy as shifting gears in an 18-wheeler.

"At that point, he could have shot me," admitted the wily widow. "But he was so stunned, so humiliated, he couldn't wait to get out of there. He just turned and barged out the door — almost tripping over a chair on his way out."

Cops believe the stumblebum bandit is the same bozo who's been sticking up sandwich shops all over Sydney in recent weeks. And they say they'd advise his next victims to hand over their loot, no questions asked.

"After getting beat by a 79-year-old woman in an arm wrestling match, this guy isn't going to want to take any guff

Robin Hood was murdered — by a vampire!

LOVE AT FIRST BITE: Robin Hood and Maid Marian as played by Kevin Costner and Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio.

By SUSAN BRONSON
Correspondent

The legendary outlaw Robin Hood, who plundered the rich of merry old England to help the poor, died from the dreaded bite of a vampire — and, incredibly, the demonic ghoul responsible was probably the woman he loved, the beautiful Maid Marian.

Top expert says the bloodsucker was his girlfriend — Maid Marian!

That bloodcurdling claim comes from famous Romanian vampirologist Ivo Stefan, the founder and director of the worldwide Vampire Society.

"There is plenty of evidence that this late 12th-century champion of the oppressed mysteriously bled to death," the expert told newsmen at a press briefing in Tirgu Mures, Transylvania, once the hunting grounds of the infamous Count Dracula.

"What isn't so well known, though, is the fact that when archaeologists opened Robin's Sherwood Forest grave in 1880, they were absolutely stunned to discover it was empty.

"And when the adjoining burial site, which was supposed to be the final resting place of Maid Marian, was dug up, it, too, was vacant.

"But what was even more puzzling, there were indications the graves had been opened at least once before — from the inside.

"Even more bizarre, there were traces of bat droppings at the bottom of each pit."

Stefan theorizes that Marian concealed her membership in the Legion of the Undead from the celebrated crook and his robber band.

"However, according to tradition, when Robin grew old and feeble, the still youthful looking Maid Marian and he wandered off on a midnight stroll through Sherwood — never to return.

"The next morning, Little John found their lifeless bodies under a carpet of leaves deep in the forest.

"Maid Marian was stretched out on her back, with her hands folded across her bosom and a peaceful expression on her face and traces of dried blood on her lips.

"Robin Hood was now one of the undead."

Stefan said he plans to excavate the graves again to see if he can unearth further proof of the chilling truth.

But England's Robin Hood Society is opposed to the plan. A spokesman said: "This claim is outrageous. It desecrates the reputation of one of England's great heroes."

Crippled sea lion finds love at last!

A gentle sea lion named Carly is at long last living high on the hog in a Texas marine sanctuary where she is fed and loved — and treated for her epilepsy!

The 250-pound critter is living like a queen in the fabulous Mammal Marina in Houston, Texas, a facility operated by big-hearted folks who took Carly in when no one else would have anything to do with with her.

Until her move to The Lone Star State, Carly lived in the spacious Marine Mammal Center in Laguna Beach, Calif. There, twice a day without fail, she was given a dose of herring laced with the medication she needs to control her crippling epileptic seizures.

Because of her affliction, Carly couldn't be released to roam free — and find a mate — in the open sea. And her affliction made her unwanted by any other zoos or marine facility.

The Mammal Marina came to the rescue.

Carly went to Houston in pretty good company — a handsome male sea lion named Cat. At last word, the two newcomers were as happy as a pair of clams at high tide.

Grieving parents ask:

WHO STOLE OUR DEAD BOY'S HEART?

Liver and kidneys also missing from 5-year-old drowning victim's body

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

Grief-stricken parents of a dead boy were outraged when they discovered that a ghoulish thief had snatched the heart, liver and kidneys from his tiny body before he was buried.

"I don't know what I'm going to do, but I am going to do something," said distraught dad Shedrick Harvin. "This is a horrible experience.

"No one should have the right to do anything with his organs. They belong to him, and they should be buried with him."

No one seems to know what happened to the vital organs of 5-year-old Johiah Harvin, who drowned in a pond in Socastee, Colo., May 22, 1991.

Horry County coroner Robert Edge, who performed an autopsy on the body, doesn't know. Neither does hospital pathologist Dr. Edward Proctor, who said he put the organs back in the boy's body after the autopsy.

Within hours after their son's accidental death, the brokenhearted parents turned down a hospital request to donate their son's organs.

They thought no more about it until several weeks after the funeral.

"An embalmer at the funeral home said he didn't recall seeing the heart when he prepared the body," Harvin said. The Harvins got a court order and had their son's body disinterred last month.

The remains were examined by Dr. Clay Nichols of the University of South Carolina, who said the boy's vital organs were missing.

Harvin has hired attorney Walter Bilbro Jr. to find out what happened to the organs. Assistant Horry County Atty. John Zilinsky also wants to know.

Harvin suspects someone stole the organs from his son's corpse and sold them on a human parts black market, but Laura Rudy, director of an organ procurement agency in Charleston, doubts it.

"None of my colleagues in the country know of such a thing," she said. "It is too much of a risk personally and professionally."

The heartsick parents said they won't give up until they find out who took the organs

Gals AREN'T dumb in math, study shows

Americans have believed for years that boys are brainier than girls when it comes to solving math problems — but that's a bunch of baloney, one expert insists.

"With the proper encouragement, training and opportunity, girls can do as well as boys in math, maybe better," said Dr. psychologist. Freed said the mistaken notion that males are better with numbers has made it harder for women to get a mathematics education and jobs.

"Many families are predisposed to encourage sons — but not daughters — to take math and science courses," he said. lar attitudes. So we have more male math students and more men in math-related professions.

"This is neither reasonable nor fair."

The psychologist said he reached his conclusions after studying 10,200 scores on the math portion of the Scholastic

Getting a good job is easy if you're a brainy chick like me!

Confidential

Dear Biker in Little Rock: What a coincidence. I ride a Harley myself!

Dear Foolish in Biloxi: You're being much too hard on yourself. Peabrain is more like it.

Dear Jobless in Kansas City: Just because the boss calls his wife "Fish Lips" doesn't mean you can, too!

Dear Humiliated in Minneapolis: That's why I check my shoes BEFORE I leave a restroom!

Dear Angry in Taylorsville: I've said it before and I'll say it again: If you really want to keep a man in line, buy yourself a rolling pin!

Dear Wondering in Sacramento: To be perfectly frank I don't do anything with my hair. It's naturally gorgeous — as you can plainly see!

Dear Furious in Alexandria: At least I don't have to go back and correct the spelling of my own name!

Dear Dotti: Whenever I hear somebody whine and cry about being out of work my blood really boils. I'm fresh out of high school, have no experience at all and just got a great job. My new boss interviewed me for one minute before he realized how smart I am and hired me to be his secretary.

He also promised to put me up in a luxurious penthouse apartment and give me a fancy new car. I just wanted your readers to know that they can get a good, high-paying job if they get off their duffs and look for one like I did. — Happy Gal in Nashville

Dear Happy: I don't know how long you've been working for this clown but you're in for a rude awakening. Regardless of what you might think, he didn't hire you to be a secretary — he hired you to go to bed with him!

Hubby wants a body job on my worn out frame!

Dear Dotti: I'm pretty good-looking for a 63-year-old woman but my husband thinks I could do better and ordered me to get a tummy tuck and a face lift. I don't want to go through all that but he says he'll leave me if I don't. Help me, Dotti. He's already making goo-goo eyes at my best friend. What should I do? — Scared in Salisbury

Dear Scared: Your hubby sounds like a real bonehead but this ought to fix his wagon. Tell him you'll get a facelift and tummy tuck when he gets a brain transplant — from a donor with a double digit IQ!

I've made millions of dollars — but I can't make a friend!

Dear Dotti: I made my first million at the age of 23 and now, at 26, I'm working on my third million and expect to have it by the end of the year. The thing is, I've steamrolled a lot of people while making my fortune and I don't have a friend to my name. What can I do to redeem myself and make some friends, Dotti? Your advice will be appreciated. — Lonely in Los Angeles

Dear Lonely: You can appreciate me until you're blue in the face but if you want my advice, rich boy, you'll have to pay for it!

Help! I'm being overrun by my pet rat's babies!

Dear Dotti: My pet rat had 13 babies and I can't take care of them all. I tried to sell them to pet stores but they won't buy them because they have too many rats already. What should I do? — Confused in New York

Dear Confused: The solution to your problem is as plain as the nose on my face. If you want to get rid of pet rats, buy a pet snake!

Your tongue is so sharp I'm surprised it hasn't killed you!

Dear Dotti: Considering how sharp your tongue is it's a wonder you don't slash your lips and bleed to death! — C.T.M. in Sacramento

Dear C.T.M.: If you mean that as a compliment, thank you. If you don't, go die!

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is. Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462.

Ask Serena

Why is my baby son afraid of the moon?

Dear Serena: My newborn son is the sweetest thing you've ever seen but strangely enough, he's terrified of the moon.

If he happens to see it through a window or when we take him out at night he screams and cries like a lunatic. Doctors can't find anything wrong with him so you're our only hope. Please help. — Worried in Marshall

Dear Worried: Your son was a werewolf in a former life and recalls the horror of his transformation from man to beast. He will outgrow this fear before his first birthday. For now, however, you should avoid taking him outside at night and keep your draperies closed.

Dear Serena: I'm a 17-year-old girl who is madly in love with a 19-year-old man. We've been going steady for two years on and off. The problem is that he has cheated on me several times and I never know what to expect from him. He says he loves me but sometimes I wonder. Is he the right man for me — or should I look for someone else? — Curious in Ripley

Dear Curious: This so-called boyfriend is using you but all is not lost. My crystal ball tells me that you will meet a man who really loves you next December. You'll be married shortly after your 19th birthday!

Dear Serena: Somebody broke into my car last week and stole my purse, which had $500 cash in it. Please tell me who committed the crime. Serena, so I can tell the police. — Anxious in Los Angeles

Dear Anxious: As you already know, I contacted the police and gave them the name and address of the man who stole your purse. I don't want to print his name here because he's innocent until proven guilty. But he WILL be convicted this fall!

Seattle secretary's startling

By DREW MASON
Special correspondent

Katie Martin claims to have had an affair with a B 1987 and she says the outcome of the relationship is lit Kendall Martin — her furry 4-year-old son!

"Bigfoot is not only the love of my life, he's the father of my child 29-year-old secretary from Seattle, Wash. "And even though I haven't seen him since our two-week fling in the summer of 1987, I know that he's still thinking about me, too.

"I could never love another man after loving him," she added. "That might sound odd to some people, but if you knew Bigfoot like I know Bigfoot, you'd say the same."

Miss Martin's claims might sound farfetched but there is ample reason to believe that they are rooted in fact. For one thing, Kelly Martin's head and face are covered with brown hair. And physicians who have conducted tests on the boy agree that his genetic makeup is only partly human and unlike anything they have ever seen.

Miss Martin says she came face to face with the boy's hairy, 7½-foot Bigfoot father while on a solo camping trip to Mt. Rainier National Park in July 1987.

The woman fainted dead away at the sight of the creature. But she regained consciousness when the Bigfoot dribbled cool creek water on her face and tenderly stroked her hair.

"I wanted to scream or run but I couldn't because I was paralyzed with fright," said Miss Martin. "The Bigfoot must have sensed my fear because he started to whine like a puppy.

"It might not sound very logical, but the whining calmed me down. I felt like he was trying to tell me that he wouldn't hurt me. And when I looked into his face I could see compassion in his eyes."

The Bigfoot eventually stood up and trotted into the forest. But in the days that followed he returned to Miss Martin's camp with gifts of flowers, berries and fresh fish that he apparently caught with his bare hands.

By the end of the week the creature had started sleeping at the edge of her camp. He couldn't or wouldn't speak.

But Miss Martin began to feel that they were communicating "through some sort of telepathic link."

"It wasn't communication with words. It was communication with feeling," she explained. "It was like being with somebody you love and not having to say anything because you're perfectly content to be together. One thing led to another, but I really don't want to get into that," she added. "Suffice to say that after we parted ways at the end of my trip I came back to Seattle and learned that I was pregnant with his baby."

Little Kelly was born on April 28, 1988. The doctor who delivered the boy was horrif see that his face was covered with curly hair.

But Miss Martin says she "had pre herself for anything" and recalls telling th tor that "everything will be okay."

"As it turns out the baby inherited c teristics from his Bigfoot father and fron she continued. "He's strong and hairy li daddy and he has artistic talent and an ap for mathematics like me.

"But the thing I'm proudest of is his tional strength and maturity. People who know us make fun of the way he looks but Kelly doesn't let it bother him a bit.

"I could shave his face but he knows that Bigfoot is his daddy and he's proud of that. When people crack jokes about him he looks up at me with those big brown eyes and says, 'Mommy, they don't understand.'

"He's certainly right about that," she added. "I've lost a lot of so-called 'friends' who want nothing to do with me since I gave birth to this precious little boy. I lov so much I call him Littlefoot.

"Things could be worse," she added. genes Kelly got from his dad just put hair on his face. He could have gotten genes that left him covered with it."

Miss Martin says she has returned to Mt. Rainier National Park every year since Kelly was born but hasn't seen hide nor hair of the boy's father.

As Miss Martin said, Kelly takes his ance in stride. "I'm just like my daddy and my daddy," he said. "I love my mommy, to Telephone Psychics Amaze Callers with Their Powers.

Katrina Kerr – Nationally-known psychic and founder of the National Psychic Advisor Network

Incredible Psychic Powers Only A Phone Call Away!

Psychic's winning numbers hit the jackpot. The discovery of a lost $250,000 fortune. Piercing insight. Amazing predictions. Now the irrefutable evidence can be disclosed.

There are many who believe that we do not fully understand all the powers in the universe. The amazing abilities that exist within our very own minds. Now through the National Psychic Advisor Network everyone can hear startling psychic predictions for themselves.

Astounding stories that can only be described as miraculous. Instant wealth brought by mystical life numbers and lost fortunes uncovered by penetrating psychic insight. Incredible encounters like these can now be experienced by all with the National Psychic Advisor Network.

This impressive collection of pure psychic power was made possible by and founder of the National Psychic Advisor Network. Katrina's goal was to bring together the world's best psychics for everyone's benefit. She has achieved this through the network's telephone service manned 24 hours a day by gifted psychics, mediums and spiritual counselors.

Since Katrina's dream came true in 1988 with the creation of the National Psychic Advisor Network, untold numbers of people have felt the unforgettable effects of the psychic realm. Now you too can be amazed by their fascinating metaphysical powers like so many before.

There Is Power In Numbers

For one lucky gambler this popular saying came true in the most unbelievable of ways after reading the powerful book "How To Find Your Winning Number" by Herb Dewey. He became curious and in May of 1989 decided to put the power of numbers to the ultimate test during a trip to Las Vegas.

According to the astonishing Astral number system unveiled in Dewey's book, the man's life numbers were 4, 9, 3, and 7. The Astral number system is only one of the incredible discoveries Dewey has disclosed in his many books, tapes and lectures.

Of his many gambling options, he chose Keno, a game based on correctly picking a group of randomly selected numbers. He played his four life numbers with four other favorites. To the man's amazement, Dewey's system proved true. He hit eight out of eight on the Keno machine, winning $10,000!

This incredible experience made him such a strong believer in the psychic's thanking him for his mystical assistance and asking for more information on his psychic abilities. He even asked if it was possible to receive a personalized psychic reading performed by Dewey himself.

Psychic Finds Lost Fortune

A woman from Colorado was recently speaking with psychic Katrina Kerr when Katrina insisted that the woman had some valuable papers or certificates nearby. The woman thought this was a reference to some penny stocks she had bought some time before, but that had been sold for cash soon after.

Katrina insisted that the stocks hadn't been sold and were still near. "I feel strongly that this money is around you. These papers are in a box somewhere and they are not being used."

Because the psychic was so insistent, the woman searched her basement for the papers. In a dusty old box she found the stock certificates she thought she had sold.

Through further investigation, she learned that because of a stock split and change in company ownership, what were once penny stocks were now worth over $250,000!

"I was unable to deal with it for a couple of days," the woman said, "I didn't dare believe it. You have to understand, I'd been living on food stamps and a very small income for months."

When she heard of the woman's good fortune, Katrina said, "It's wonderful when I can utilize my abilities to help someone in her situation. But she did her part, by listening to what I had to tell her."

Let us astound you right now! Call the Psychic Advisor Network any time of the day or night for a live reading with a professional psychic.

Bake your own SEX MUFFINS!

Tasty recipe supercharges your love life!

By BEATRICE DEXTER/ Correspondent

Enthusiastic lovers swear they've discovered the secret to a wild and sizzling sex life — a delicious muffin that pumps up passion to incredible levels!

The miracle sex muffin contains five powerful aphrodisiacs that rev up romance, users say.

They work on both men and women and they are inexpensive, easy to make and contain ingredients available everywhere.

"Just one sex muffin a day changed my marriage," said Carmela Giotti, 38, who got the recipe from a friend last fall when she visited France. "I can't believe how sexy I feel and how satisfying lovemaking is for me now. Before I discovered them, I was always too tired for sex and my husband just didn't turn me on. Now I can't wait for our time alone together."

No one knows where the original recipe for the muffins came from, but the sweet, spicy breads are now widely used in France, Italy and parts of Spain, according to Italian anthropologist Luigi Di Tonno. So popular are they that in certain areas they are standard fare on breakfast menus in cafes and restaurants.

Preliminary research on the muffins shows that they do, indeed, increase sex desire and a sense of well-being among people who eat the bread daily. To date, no one has discovered precisely how they work.

"They contain ginseng, a root widely used in the Orient to increase sexual appetite and promote stamina," Dr. Di Tonno said. "Ginseng is combined with chocolate, honey, cinnamon and ginger, which have long been thought to have aphrodisiacal properties.

"Chocolate and honey, two of the most abundant ingredients in the muffins, are also known to increase sex drive. Chocolate contains an amino acid, phenylthylalnine, that stimulates secretions of love chemicals in the brain."

Another muffin muncher, Andres Ginon of Montpelier, France, says the sex muffins have made a new man of him.

The 34-year-old engineer was at the point of losing his marriage because of his flagging sex drive when his wife told him about the sex muffins. Now, he says, he has sex at least once a day.

"The muffins are delicious, and that's great," says Ginon. "But it's the energy I get from eating them that I like. I feel that convinces me they have a secret power. I have so much energy for life and love now. I look at a woman and all I can think of is the sweet time I could have with her in bed. My sex drive is four times what it used to be."

Dr. Di Tonno, whose writings on the muffins have been published in a number of major European newspapers, has agreed to share the sex muffin recipe with Weekly World News readers.

The delicious muffins are made with ordinary ingredients, and contain ginseng which is widely available in health food stores.

Simply purchase Korean or Siberian ginseng in capsule form, open the capsules and use the powdered contents in

Recipe

Sex Muffins

1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
2 tsps. baking powder
1 tsp. ginger
1 tsp. cinnamon
Contents of 15 capsules ginseng
2 oz. semi-sweet chocolate
1/2 stick (4 tbsps.) butter or margarine
1/3 cup honey
1 cup milk
2 egg whites, slightly beaten

Mix together flour, baking powder, spices and ginseng in bowl.

Meanwhile, slowly melt chocolate and butter together in top of double boiler, stirring mixture until smooth.

Add melted chocolate to ingredients in bowl, along with honey, milk and egg whites. Stir just enough to blend, pour into greased muffin tins and bake in preheated 400-degree oven. Bake 20-25 minutes or until browned. Allow muffins to cool 2 minutes before removing from pan.

Tin skull whistles 'Amazing Grace'

By LYMAN TABB / Special correspondent

A replica of a human skull that guards the tomb of a European emperor whistles the hymn Amazing Grace through its teeth, stunned witnesses report.

"It sounds crazy but I know what I heard," Axel Bartels told reporters in Vienna, Austria.

"My wife and I were with a group of 20 people admiring the skull and the tomb," Bartels said. "Suddenly the skull began to whistle through its teeth. Everybody who heard it was flabbergasted. But we agreed that the tune was unmistakable.

"It was definitely that song Amazing Grace. It whistled the whole tune before it quit."

The eerie skull is one of four tin figures that have guarded the tomb of Hapsburg emperor Karl VI in Vienna since his death in 1740.

Public works officials responsible for maintaining the tomb are stunned by the reports of the whistling skull. According to one department source, 26 tourists so far have claimed they've heard the musical skull.

Dr. Gerd Moser, an acoustics expert, examined the tin skull on each occasion. He has since said he is 95 percent sure the whistling was not caused by any phenomenon known to man.

"I looked into the possibility the whistling could have been caused by wind blowing through the skull's teeth but that is not the case," said the expert.

"I have absolutely no explanation for it. I am particularly interested in why it is Amazing Grace that comes from the skeleton's teeth."

Psychologist Josef Wimmer has interviewed a dozen of the 26 people who claim to have heard the skull whistle.

"My investigation is not complete. But I'm confident that these people are telling the truth and really did hear the skull whistling."

Little girl buried in her very own playhouse tomb

TRAGIC Nadine Earles died just a week before Christmas 58 years ago.

By DICK DONOVAN
Staff writer

On a plot of ground in the peaceful Alabama countryside, a child's playhouse shelters the cherished dolls — and the little grave — of the tragic imp of a girl who was buried there on Christmas Eve of 1933!

Standing in the Lanett City Cemetery, its shingled roof and brick walls are a lasting memorial to Nadine Earles, a 5-year-old girl who died suddenly of pneumonia a week before Christmas more than a half-century ago.

In the joyful, unsuspecting days leading up to that tragic Christmas, Nadine had used every scheme a child's mind could devise to let her parents know that, more than anything else, she wanted Santa to bring her a playhouse.

It's only speculation — J.C. and Alma Earles rest in their likely the loving parents pretended not to notice the tot's not-so-subtle hints.

But if death hadn't snatched their little girl so swiftly from them, as sure as the sun rises in the east, Nadine would have been romping in her very own dream house on that long-ago Christmas morn.

And so, in their anguish, Nadine's heartbroken parents resolved not to let their baby's Christmas dream die.

The playhouse was built over Nadine's grave in Lanett City Cemetery.

Inside, surrounded by her dolls, toys and photographs, a small marble stone bears a bittersweet lament: "Our darling little girl — sweetest in the world, Nadine Earles." Next to

GENIUS INVENTS WORLD'S FIRST UFO MAGNET!

UFOs like these are drawn to the device from as far as 5 miles away.

By JEFFREY COMSTOCK
Special correspondent

You can spot UFOs and meet space aliens to boot thanks to an astonishing new device that attracts starships and extraterrestrials like a magnet!

That's the word from inventor Carl Stone, who spent six years perfecting his "UFO Attractor" and now plans to sell them for $79.95 in hardware and department stores nationwide.

"If you want contact with extraterrestrials the UFO Attractor is for you," declared Stone, who claims to have had four close encounters while testing the gadget.

"The only catch, if you can call it a catch, is that the device has a limited range. Space aliens and starships must be within five miles of you to pick up the super high-frequency radio signal that the UFO Attractor emits. But once they hear it they simply cannot resist and immediately seek out the source.

"I don't pretend that this device is for everyone, because it isn't," he added. "The U.S. government has already ordered several thousand of them and if you have the desire and the guts to confront extraterrestrials, you'd be foolish not to buy one, too." This isn't the first time that the expert who used to be based in Louisiana, but now lives in Costa Rica, has shaken the scientific world with an invention.

As Weekly World News reported in a previous edition, Stone unveiled a flashlight-size device called Alien Alert at a trade show in the Bahamas last spring. The device shrieks and wails when a space alien or UFO comes within 500 feet. And while the UFO Attractor is considerably larger and more expensive than the $29.95 Alien Alert, Stone expects it to sell even better than the warning device "because millions of people would pay any price to see a UFO."

Gizmo attracts starships like bees to honey!

"As more and more people have accepted the fact that space aliens exist they have fallen into two camps — those who want close encounters and those who want to avoid them," continued the expert. "I'm not at liberty to discuss any of the technologies that enabled me to build these devices. Suffice it to say that they work and will be sold with a money-back guarantee."

Stone had hoped to have Alien Alert in hardware and department store nationwide by fall.

Production and distribution glitches have pushed the sale date back, however, and the inventor now hopes to have both devices on sale by January or February at the latest.

"These devices will revolutionize the way we deal with

WACKY DEATHS OF THE RICH & FAMOUS!

DASHING Clark Gable said screen queen Marilyn Monroe was killing him!

By NED DRAKE
Correspondent

Attila the Hun choked to death. Health food guru Euell Gibbons succumbed to a stomach ailment and Sitting Bull died in a shootout — with police!

Those are just a few of the fascinating deaths included in the riveting book: They Went That-a-Way (Simon & Schuster, New York, $18.95).

Here's more:

● Sitting Bull. The Indian who masterminded the defeat of Custer at Little Big Horn was shot to death at the Standing Rock Reservation in South Dakota in 1890.

Federal authorities regarded Sitting Bull as a troublemaker. They commissioned an Indian police force to arrest him. He refused to go and called on friends for help. Shots were fired. Two bullets hit and killed Sitting Bull.

● Mama Cass Elliot. A lot of people mistakenly think the horrendously fat singer of the 1960s pop group The Mamas and the Papas choked while eating a sandwich. In fact, she died of a heart attack brought on by her obesity. The year was 1974. She was 33.

MAMA CASS

● Attila the Hun. The fearsome warrior who threatened to conquer all of Western civilization in the fifth century got dog drunk on his wedding night — and was found dead the next day! Overexertion with his new bride apparently caused a blood vessel in his nose to break. Attila was so drunk that he choked to death on his own blood.

● Clark Gable. The legendary screen star was cast opposite Marilyn Monroe in The Misfits, which proved to be his final movie. While filming he complained that a temperamental Monroe was going to give him a heart attack.

Two days after filming ended, Gable had stomach pains. Doctors confirmed he had suffered a mild heart attack. He died later that day. He was 59.

● Euell Gibbons. The famous health food writer, who became a star by touting breakfast cereal in the 1970s, developed an ulcer in 1974 and died of an undisclosed stomach ailment a year later.

Ring lost 20 years ago found – in a loaf of bread!

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

Absentminded Mandy Detloff lost her cherished senior class ring in 1972 and never saw it again till she bought a loaf of bread 20 years later — and found her precious ring baked inside!

"I stopped by the bakery after dropping the kids off at school and grabbed the first loaf of rye I got my hands on," flabbergasted Mandy told reporters in Richmond, Va.

"I got it home and stuck a knife in it and right away I felt something hard in there. So I broke the loaf open and there was the ring staring back at me!

"I checked it out and sure enough, my initials were engraved on it along with the year, class of '72. And right beside them were the initials of my old boyfriend that I'd scratched there with a penknife 20 years ago. I was stunned!"

The dumbfounded divorcee's mind-boggling story began two decades ago when she was a Virginia schoolgirl.

"I was such an airhead back then, my friends called me Miss Ditz because I was always losing stuff," the former cheerleader said with a sigh.

"I'd lose my homework assignments, I'd lose my shoes, I'd lose everything. Then just before graduation, I lost my class ring. I loved that thing so much it brought me to tears.

"I was making some goodies for a graduation party and I took the ring off and put it on the window sill so I wouldn't get cookie batter all over it.

HAPPY Mandy Detloff shows off her high school ring which she found in a loaf of bread — 20 years after the ring was lost.

Then my girlfriends came over and I went out with them and forgot all about my ring until the next morning — and when I went to get it, it was gone.

"I looked through every inch of the house and gave my mom and dad and little sister the third degree, but no one had seen it. Then I crawled around in the lawn under the window sill for hours, but it just wasn't there. I was so sad I cried myself to sleep that night."

And mystified Mandy, now 38, saw neither hide nor hair of the ring again until it popped after it vanished into thin air.

"If you believe in miracles, this is a miracle — a trillion to one shot, at least," gushed the elated lady. "In my wildest imagination, I can't figure out how that ring wound up in that bread.

"And the people at the bakery haven't a clue, either. I told them my story and they looked at me like I was crazy.

"I don't know what force guided my hand to pick that particular loaf of bread. All I know is, I shelled out a buck and a half and bought myself a

Nine-year-old serial rapist horrifies town!

By JACK ALEXANDER / Staff writer

A serial rapist is terrorizing children in a picturesque logging town and no one seems to knows what to do about it — because the suspect is only 9 years old.

Cops say he's attacked eight children so far!

The youngster — who still has his baby teeth — may have molested or raped eight children at knife point the past two years. The youngest was only 2½ years old.

Police and prosecutors are investigating reports the boy forced some children to perform oral sex on him, threatening to kill them if they told anyone. Two of the victims were girls, ages 3 and 7.

"No one in authority is quite sure what to do about the boy," said a cop in the tiny town of Buckley, Wash., population 3,500. "Do you punish him or get him help?"

The county juvenile detention center probably wouldn't take the boy because he's too young, according to police detective James Osborn. In the state of Washington, a child under 12 is presumed not to know the difference between right and wrong and is rarely charged with a crime.

The baby-faced suspect, whose mother has a daytime job, was raping or molesting children for two years before anyone found out, cops said. On the way to a school bus stop, he is accused of fondling a 7-year-old girl and forcing a 5-year-old boy to perform oral sex on him.

The two kids were too scared to say anything about their ordeal. But the 5-year-old's parents were suspicious when he began saying sexually explicit things at home, cops said.

During questioning, cops said the 9-year-old brute admitted abusing three children.

Two boys who witnessed the attack on the 2½-year-old tot told police they were threatened with death if they told anyone what they saw.

The parents of three kids abused by the 9-year-old say their children have psychological damage and scream in the night.

The 2½-year-old has turned into a little terror and is in counseling.

KISSING COUPLE: It was a smooch like this that brought Michael Dupont back to life.

MORGUE SHOCKER!

Girl kisses boyfriend's corpse — and brings him back to life!

By ROB MORRISON

Special correspondent

Sally Conklin miraculously brought her dead boyfriend back to life with a kiss while he was stretched out on a slab in a hospital's morgue!

Doctors have no explanation for the stunning resurrection of 22-year-old Michael Dupont and say it's unlikely that they ever will.

But the lucky young man himself rightfully gives Miss Conklin all the credit for saving his life. And as a reward he has asked her to marry him this spring.

"Physicians aren't supposed to use words like 'mystery' or 'miracle' but I'll be damned if there's another way to describe this," said the surgeon who pronounced Dupont dead after his heart stopped during a kidney operation.

"This young man suffered cardiac arrest just as we were finishing the surgery and even though we tried to revive him with every drug and technique at our disposal, the situation was obviously hopeless.

"Mr. Dupont was already in the hospital's morgue when his girlfriend sneaked inside to give him one last kiss and miraculously revived him. About 25 minutes had passed since he died in the operating room.

"I thought the nurse who told me the patient was alive had lost her mind. But then I saw Mr. Dupont in the recovery room. He was groggy and in pain but he managed to say: 'How did I do, doc? Is the kidney going to be okay?'

"The young man didn't even suffer any brain or tissue damage," continued the surgeon. "That's unheard of in a patient who was dead as long as he was."

An account of the incident that appeared in a major medical newsletter didn't identify the doctor who performed the operation, or the hospital where the miracle occurred.

Miss Conklin, 21, and Dupont were simply referred to as "the Michigan couple" and were quoted along with the doctor in what the newsletter called "exclusive interviews."

According to the report, Dupont suffered kidney failure as a boy of 14 and had been on dialysis. Because of his age he was considered to be a prime candidate for a kidney transplant. When one became available, he entered the hospital for the operation that was expected to save his life — but killed him instead.

Miss Conklin was in a hospital waiting room when she heard the bad news and ran screaming from the hospital. About 25 minutes later she returned and found Dupont's lifeless body in the morgue.

HAPPY-TO-BE-ALIVE Michael Dupont poses with girlfriend Sally Conklin, who brought him back to life with a kiss.

there but me so I put my arms around him and kissed him on the cheek just to say goodbye," said the woman.

"I was sobbing and shaking could when I felt him twitch and heard him groan. He tried to say something but he was incoherent. I just screamed for help."

eral weeks after the incident showed Dupont in good health as he awaited his release.

Man gives his severed finger to woman he tried to rape!

By GEORGE CALLIN
Special correspondent

A janitor accused of attempted rape was nabbed, cops said, when he arranged a meeting with his victim to give her a gift — a finger he'd severed from his own hand!

Toru Mizuno showed up for the meeting with his little finger in a gift-wrapped box, cops in Tokyo, Japan reported.

They said Mizuno, 31, wanted to give the woman the grisly gift to demonstrate his remorse for the attack. "To say this is a bizarre case simply doesn't do it justice," a detective said. "I've never seen anything like it."

The strange tale began when the unidentified victim, told police a man she'd met in an English language class had tried to rape her.

More than a week later, the 23-year-old woman notified investigators that her attacker had telephoned her to apologize. She said he wanted to meet her and give her a gift.

Police accompanied the lady to the meeting at a fast food restaurant, where they found the suspect with a small, brightly wrapped box.

"He had brought a little box as a present for her, and in the box was his finger, which he had cut off as a gesture to show her how sorry he felt for the attempted rape," said Detective Sakae Oka.

Mizuno was whisked away to jail. His finger was taken to the coroner's office, where it was held as evidence.

Swami buries head in sand for 8 years!

GURU-turned-beach-bum Poonam Shastri pulls his head out of the sand once a day — to eat bread.

By JOE BERGER / Staff writer

Goofy guru Poonam Shastri has spent the last eight years of his life hanging out at the beach — with his head buried under two feet of sand!

And peabrained Poonam has vowed to keep his bald noggin knee-deep in sand for as long as he lives — popping out just once a day to wet his whistle and munch on a crust of bread.

"Do not ask why I do this. This is my life," the slaphappy holy man told reporters in Trichur, India.

"It is not always an easy life to stand on my head all day, especially when the sand gets in my nose or people tickle my feet to make me laugh.

"But this is the course I have chosen and I will be here until I die." And pious Poonam's followers figure his headstand in the sand is just about the greatest act of self-sacrifice ever seen.

"Poonam is divine," gushed devoted disciple Sanjiv Delani. "His love, faith and courage are an inspiration to the world."

Starry-eyed Sanjiv is one of three men assigned to deliver the loco yogi's bread and water each day at noon.

"When we arrive, Poonam pulls himself upright, shakes the sand off his face and quietly begins to eat and drink," his faithful follower said with awe.

"He normally says nothing to us at all, except to nod his thanks.

"He gives himself five minutes to eat and drink, and then he returns to his hole in the sand.

"He is like no one else — like nothing else — on earth."

But peculiar Poonam admits he copied his head-in-the-sand life-style from a flock of ostriches he saw pull off the same stunt in a wildlife video. "I saw those beautiful birds do that and I thought, 'What a wonderful way to achieve peace and harmony with the world,'" said the

"I was looking for a parking lot," Hylton, 27, told the court. "Police stopped me as I was finding it difficult finding a space and there were yellow lines everywhere.

How to meet and marry a rich man

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

Single girls can get rich quick and live in luxury for the rest of their days by following some simple pointers on how to wed a wealthy man.

That is the contention of Sally Blanton, who owns a business that helps girls find rich husbands and teaches a course called "How to Marry the Wealthy."

"If you want to marry, you might as well aim for a man who is well off," said Blanton, who is divorced from one wealthy man and dating another.

"Meeting and attracting a rich mate is possible for anyone, if they know where to find them and how to dress and act in an acceptable manner.

"The women who take my course don't get all the answers, but they get some tips that matter."

Blanton charges $18 for a two-hour session held at her home in Highland Park, Tex., near Dallas. Her students sign up for the class in hopes that they'll learn enough to find the Prince Charming of their dreams.

Among the tips Blanton offers women for finding a moneyed man are these:

● Adopt the proper mental attitude. Think rich by assuming that there is enough to go around for everyone. At home, write up a list of 10 reasons why you want to be rich and 10 reasons why you deserve to be.

● Be realistic. Realize that you may not live happily ever after.

You might have problems with his relatives or children who may resent you. There masy be harmful gossip about why you married a wealthy mate.

Your husband may be miserly, or he may insist on making the rules because he has the money.

● Pick your profession carefully. You have a better chance of meeting the well-heeled as a governess, a journalist, or a salesperson who handles expensive goods than as a teacher, a beautician or a secretary in a small office.

● Join clubs where the rich congregate. Health clubs, tennis or racquetball clubs, theater, opera and ballet guilds offer excellent contacts. So do adult education courses in foreign languages, gourmet cooking or sailing.

● Give yourself a moneyed image. Dress in tasteful, understated clothing and jewelry.

CASH-HUNGRY RUSSIAN HOOKERS INVADING U.S.

Hopping-mad American prostitutes declare war!

By RICK TRACY
Special correspondent

The cold war with the Commies is over but a new battle is brewing on the streets of America's major cities — between our hardworking hookers and the curvaceous Russian cuties who want a piece of the action.

The beautiful Soviet sex kittens know there are big bucks to be made on their backs and they're coming to the U.S. by the hundreds. Angry American prostitutes say they'll fight to protect their turf.

More than 5,000 harlots from the Kremlin are working the streets and the plush hotel rooms and convention centers in Chicago, New York City, Los Angeles, Miami, Atlanta and Las Vegas.

"They'll regret the day they tried to weasel in on our territory," said Ginger, a hooker in the Windy City. "Every time one of those tramps turns a trick, the cops will know about it. I'll see to that."

More violent threats have been reported to cops in New York City and Los Angeles, said one veteran hooker, "Some of them will be going back home sooner than they think — in a box. If they want action, we'll give them action. This is all-out war."

With the death of Communism and the cold war, young Russian women are heading toward the capitalist countries to get rich. And most of them don't have anything to sell but their bodies.

"Hundreds of them hook a husband to get to America and dump them the first chance they get," said a U.S. Customs agent. "Then they get swallowed up in our street society."

Many big-boned Russian bimbos get to America posing as models. Others come as pimps. And more than a few say they are students.

Hopping-mad hookers in Miami say they'll be only too happy to line up the Ruskies with a few clients who will give them money — and AIDS.

In Dallas, five Russian prostitutes have had their heads shaved. Dozens have been beaten and stashed in dumpsters in New York, Chicago and Detroit. "We're sending them a message," said Peaches, a hooker in Denver. "If they're smart, they'll hop the next plane back to Siberia."

Cool and curvy model Marie-Elise turned James Bond's head in the movie Octopussy, and her work as a game show hostess has kept British men glued to the tube for years. The London lovely keeps her sleek

SPACE ALIENS

By LESTER BEACON / Special correspondent

A classified ad told exactly where a UFO would pick up a pair of space aliens who had been visiting our planet!

That's the claim of German explorer George Muller, who followed the ad's directions and got to the site in time to see a saucer-shaped starship beam up two extraterrestrials in the middle of the Sahara Desert.

EXPLORER Georg Muller followed mysterious directions printed in classified ad.

"I don't think there is any doubt that the UFO was picking up explorers or spies," Muller, 33, told newsmen in Cairo, Egypt.

"The classified ad was directed at two creatures named 'Durn' and 'Abelf.' It gave the latitude and longitude of the rendezvous point and told them to be there on Thursday, July 30, precisely at noon.

"I don't know why, but the ad intrigued me, and I decided to go to the site myself. When I arrived, the UFO was hovering about 50 feet over the ground.

"A shaft of blue light shot out from the ship and lifted two pencil-thin individuals — aliens — into the ship's belly.

"The UFO remained stationary for five or six seconds. Then it flew straight up and disappeared."

Muller's report met with some skepticism but he seemed to have ample evidence to support his claims.

The classified ad, which was placed in the personals section of Cairo's Al Ahram newspaper by an unidentified woman, spoke for itself. And photographs taken at the alleged UFO site showed that heat generated by the starship had fused a 200-foot circle of sand into glass.

The site is approximately 450 miles south-southwest of Cairo deep in the Sahara Desert.

And while Muller found it next to impossible to get there in a Land Rover, footprints leading to the spot indicated that the space aliens got there on foot.

"No man alive could have walked through the desert like that but those aliens pulled it off without a hitch," said Muller.

"They must be immune to blistering heat. And they obviously can live without water."

Egyptian officials refused to comment on Muller's report but insiders confirmed that they are "keenly interested" in what the German has to say.

One source noted that the authorities have suspected "clandestine extraterrestrial activity" throughout Egypt for months.

"It's too soon to draw conclusions but I suspect that there could be a connection between this alien activity and the event Mr. Muller described," said the source.

"I don't know what kind of information the aliens were after.

"But if I had to guess, I'd say they were checking out the Pyramids."

Civil War ghost army burns town to the ground — in 1992!

By TONY CASSIDY / Special correspondent

A trucker and his wife say they saw a ghost troop of Civil War soldiers marching into Gatlinburg, Tenn., on July 14 — just hours before the town was all but destroyed in a mysterious fire storm!

"They was Union soldiers that were killed in the war and they was getting their revenge by burning the town," 38-year-old trucker Cletus Jasper declared. "I know that positive because they was carrying torches and I could see them plain as if it was daylight.

"They was marching beside the road with their rifles slung over their shoulders. And I know they was ghosts because my wife Bobby and me could see right through them like they wasn't even there.

"If you ask me, it was General Sherman's boys doing what they did in the war. They plundered and burned every southern town they conquered. It was hateful what they did.

"I surely do think the soldiers I saw was them what was killed before they could join in the fun. So they just set fire to Gatlinburg for revenge. Really hateful!"

Since no one seems certain what triggered the mysterious blaze, Jasper's shocking claim can't be easily discredited. Nor can it be denied that the flames swept through the popular tourist town — known as The Gateway to the Smokies — with a fury that left 10 percent of the business district a charred and smoking ruin.

"It was about 10 o'clock that night and we was coming into town on (U.S.) 441 when CJ first saw them," 25-year-old Bobby Jasper recalled. "I didn't see it right off 'cause I was kinda dozing. But CJ woke me up real quick. He said, 'Bobby, do you see what I see, or am I crazy?' When I opened my eyes and saw those men marching alongside the road, I thought I was dreaming. They were men in dark uniforms like I saw in Gone With The Wind. And they were carrying torches that had greenish flames. And I could see right through them like they was vapor or something. It was real scary."

Jasper said that just before he reached the town limits, the soldiers slowly began to disappear.

"They dissolved like they were a fog," the trucker said. "One minute they was there and the next, they was gone. But you know what I think? Them soldiers set fire to the town."

Gatlinburg, with a population of about 3,500, plays eager host to some 35,000 tourists each day during the summer months. Town officials say the residents are determined to get things back to normal as quickly as possible.

"We'll work to rebuild it all better than it was before the fire," one town father vowed.

Miracle spice cures everything — from ulcers to baldness!

By SANDRA LEE
Correspondent

One of the most potent medicines known to man is as close as your grocery store and cheap enough to take every day. It's cayenne pepper — a miracle spice reputed to cure every ailment from high blood pressure and obesity to heart disease, sometimes in a matter of a few hours!

Dr. John Christopher

That's the claim of Dr. John Christopher, a nationally known herbalist who personally used cayenne to maintain superior health until his death at a ripe old age.

His praise of cayenne has literally spanned decades. It began when he used it to lower his own dangerously high blood pressure at the age of 35.

In the years that followed he prescribed it for hundreds of his own patients.

From his studies he concluded that cayenne cures a mind-boggling range of afflictions and diseases when eaten liberally in foods, applied directly to affected areas of the body or even sipped — one teaspoonful per cup of warm water — as a delicious tea.

As with any medicine, you should consult your doctor before using cayenne to cure or treat anything.

With that in mind, here are some of the ailments that Dr. Christopher said the spice helps or cures:

● Stomach Ulcers — In the case of one man, three cups of the spicy cayenne tea, taken daily, banished the pain of ulcers overnight and eventually cured the grateful patient completely.

● High Blood Pressure — Dr. Christopher drank a cup of cayenne tea three times a day to lower his own high blood pressure. It returned to normal and stayed there.

● Hemorrhoids — A karate expert ate three teaspoons of cayenne on his food daily until his hemorrhoids disappeared.

● Bleeding — Cayenne sprinkled into a cut usually stops the bleeding instantly.

Use as much as needed to fill the wound.

● Heart Trouble — Dr. Christopher believed cayenne to be "one of the finest foods for the heart." He recommended one cup of cayenne tea daily for all around good health.

● Circulatory Problems — Liberal use of cayenne on food stimulates circulation and reduces harmful deposits in veins and arteries.

● Fat — Mix equal parts cayenne and baby oil, apply liberally to waistline and cover with plastic wrap at bedtime. As incredible as it sounds, Dr. Christopher reported that people lost up to one inch of flab by using cayenne overnight.

The same treatment reportedly eliminates ugly cellulite.

● Baldness — Vigorously massage the baby oil-cayenne mixture on balding area daily to stimulate revitalized hair growth. You can literally expect to see results within days.

● Muscle Pain — Massage the baby oil-cayenne mixture into skin over the aching muscle as often as necessary to banish pain. Bunions respond to the same treatment.

● Colds, Flu, Sore Throat — Sip one cup of cayenne tea three times daily to stop or ward them off.

● Longevity — A single cup of cayenne tea sipped daily boosts the body's defenses against disease and improves all the body's systems, which can add years to your life.

● Memory — Three cups of cayenne tea daily can increase your brain power and dramatically sharpen your memory.

"Cayenne pepper is one of the greatest healing spices of all time. Yet it is ignored and ridiculed by the public," said Dr. Christopher, who studied the used of herbs and cayenne at the Dominican Herbal College in Vancouver, Canada.

"I am convinced that there is nothing like cayenne," he

Why rich tourists are hated all over the world!

Travel agents around the world are drawing up a blacklist of fat-cat customers they'll refuse to serve — because the moneybags tourists bellyache about every little thing!

A blowhard British traveler teed off his agent by screaming bloody murder about mouse droppings on the bread served at a ritzy restaurant in Crete. Turned out the "droppings" were caraway seeds.

Another crybaby complained the fancy hotel his agent put him up in was so quiet he couldn't get to sleep.

"We even had a lady book a trip to a Swiss ski resort, then yell at us because she got there and found snow on the ground," said one flabbergasted agent. "Some Fashion flash: Sideburns are back!

The bushy growths on the sides of men's faces were last the rage in the early '70s, and they're in vogue again, according to fashion pundits.

YOUR JEWELRY REVEALS YOUR PERSONALITY!

By ALEX MORGAN
Correspondent

Your jewelry reveals more about the real you than anything else you wear, says an expert.

Because jewelry is very individual — something we have great freedom in choosing — it discloses a lot about our personalities, says New York psychologist Dr. Elayne J. Kahn.

FLASHY jewelry shows your good sense of humor!

Here are some examples of the jewelry you might wear — and what each reveals about you, according to Dr. Kahn:

● Lots of gold. If you wear loads of gold jewelry, you're self-confident, outgoing and friendly.

● Just a touch of gold. If you wear only a little gold — such as a pair of earrings, or a gold chain, or only a gold watch — you tend to be low-keyed, tasteful and restrained in your manner.

● Silver jewelry. If you like to wear silver jewelry, you're orderly and precise. You like to stick to established routines and dislike surprises.

● Flashy costume jewelry. Do you like large beads, bangles, or bright rhinestones? You're lighthearted, with a good sense of humor, and you like to stand out in a crowd.

● Gimmicky jewelry. These include mood rings, feather necklaces or the "peace" medallions of the 1960s, anything that's "in" at the time.

"These persons like to catch people off guard," said Dr. Kahn, co-author of 1001 Ways You Reveal Your Personality. "They enjoy turning the outlandish into the height of fashion."

● Artistic jewelry. People who wear handcrafted or homemade jewelry like to be different, to express individuality, and they appreciate creativity.

● Fake jewelry that looks like precious gems, such as diamonds. You place importance on looking good and getting along with other people.

Man kills himself — for kissing pal's wife!

Postman Simon Blackley, 23, killed himself after he was caught kissing a friend's wife. The London man kissed Karen Roos, 25, during a housewarming party. He was surprised in the act by Karen's husband, Lee Barnes.

Authorities say the man left the party, went home and gassed himself to death in his car. A coroner's report listed the death as a suicide, stating a note had been found

DOCS DISCOVER NEW MIRACLE HEALER

SNAKE SPIT CURES CANCER!

By BEATRICE DEXTER
Special correspondent

Scientists have discovered a new miracle medication that promises to cure everything from burns to cancer: Ordinary everyday snake spit!

The saliva of a striped European snake can accomplish amazing cures when eaten, rubbed or placed on an ailing body part, according to a team of Italian doctors in Rome.

"A growth factor called EGF found in snake saliva has been implicated in the healing of a variety of lesions, including tendon injuries, erosions of the gastrointestinal tract, burns and surgical wounds," the doctors wrote in the July 25 issue of The Lancet magazine.

The scientists say their findings may explain why ancient Romans and Greeks used snakes in healing rituals. The snakes — a southern European species called four-lined snakes — were worshiped in special temples where priests cared for the sick and wounded.

Treatments consisted of placing the ailing limb or wound in contact with the mouth of the serpents, the scientists say.

The snakes' saliva provided magical healing properties that caused cancers to disappear, sores to miraculously clear and internal complaints to vanish. Scientists expect the substance, which is not currently available, will be on the market within a few years. They suggest that people interested in EGF contact their doctors for more information.

Male shoppers take over the supermarket!

Men are no longer just cart pushers or bag carriers when it comes to shopping.

Today, a hubby is a force to be reckoned with in the marketplace — where the "little woman" once ruled supreme!

That's the finding of a study which, though still incomplete, shows men's role in family buying has leaped from 10 percent to 50 percent over the past decade. The study's preliminary findings show:

- Men are more open to new products.
- Men are less willing than women to compromise on quality.

Bad moods are contagious, say experts!

If your boss is in bad humor, stay out of his way — because moods really are contagious, a top expert warns.

Feelings like anger, joy and irritability are "catchy," according to Los Angeles psychiatrist Ronald Podell. "They can spread just like any cold or flu, infecting all who come in close contact with them," said Podell, author of the new book Contagious Emotions (Pocket Books). "Not only are spouses affected, but children, parents, friends and coworkers as well," said the expert.

Good news for boozers...

BIZARRE SCHOOL TEACHES YOU HOW TO DRIVE DRUNK!

Bleary-eyed Ike Siemons is a hard-boozing businessman who operates a bizarre school for fellow drunks — teaching them how to drive when they're too stewed to stand up!

And since 1988, enterprising Ike has enrolled more than 200 tipplers in his drunk driving classes — raking in more than $70,000 in tuition payments.

"Obviously, there are a hell of a lot of people out there who want to learn how to drive when they're fried," allowed the whiskey-guzzling former Grand Prix champ.

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

But wily Ike insists he's never encouraged anyone to hit the road toasted.

"These people are lushes, just like me, and they're going to drive drunk no matter what I do," said the headmaster for hoochhounds.

"I just teach them how to do it a little more safely, so they're not as likely to kill themselves or some other poor soul."

And elbow-bending Ike, 58, also teaches his students how to avoid the evil eye of the law while cruising along crocked.

Among his tips:

- Never zip down the highway with your head hanging out the window.
- If a policeman pulls up beside you at a traffic light, look him in the eye. Cops are used to being stared at and they get suspicious if you try and avoid bumper stickers that call attention to your penchant for pouring them down.

"Never drive a car with a bumper sticker that says, 'I brake for pink elephants,'" he started his school for souses three years ago after his third conviction for drunk driving in Dusseldorf, Germany.

"I knew I wasn't about to stop drinking and driving, he told a reporter. "So I decide to learn as much as I cou about how to drive safely whi I was drunk.

"I already had a lot of bas driving skills from my racir

This is your great chance to become rich and powerful forever

YOU CAN BE A WINNER

The Fortune Key was created by great Masters: The seven cosmic elements and the magic of numerology are reunited in it. All the magic and miraculous symbols are printed on it.

Make up your mind and win. Give up your sadness and your despair. You don't win anything being like that. You'd rather lose. Then it is for your sake that I am telling you to send the coupon that is at the bottom of the page.

You will receive an envelope without any printing on it which contains The Fortune Key and The Secret Method to obtain benefits, a pamphlet in which I explain to you how to make your request, how to take care of it and how to activate it.

You don't have anything to lose. Pay attention to the offer I am making you: If The Fortune Key works for you everything will be set in peace. If it doesn't work for you on a 100% and you don't win cash money, you can return it within 30 days. We will send your money back.

Don't let this chance go away: Try your luck once. It's not one thing that you have to buy everyday, like food. You just have to do it once and you will be very lucky. Don't you think it will be too silly to let this chance of becoming rich go away?

GUARANTEE

If The Fortune Key has not given you extra cash money within 30 days, you can return it by mail. You will immediately receive a check in your name for the amount of money you invested on your purchase.
